

Press Contact:

Karen Tearney or Pru Quinlan
Einsteinz Communications
02 8905 0995
karen@einsteinz.com.au or pru@einsteinz.com.au

Dimension Data Learning Solutions helps students caught by Excom closure

Sydney, Australia – 25 August 2010: Dimension Data Learning Solutions (DDLS) announced today that students affected by the closure of Excom, will have the opportunity to complete their courses at no charge. The offer applies to those students that are mid way through their course who can provide their Excom course confirmation and courseware.

DDLS General Manager, David Gage commented: “We will be ramping up our training schedule and will be looking to employ additional instructors to fill the hole left by Excom’s departure from the market. It’s important that as a company we show compassion and respect for the students who have been caught out by the closure of Excom and we intend to assist them as much as possible.”

Students will be able to review DDLS course schedules to determine the most appropriate course to join at any of DDLS’s learning centres located around Australia.

DDLS offers authorised training courses for an extensive range of vendors including Microsoft, Cisco, Citrix, Apple, Checkpoint, VMware, Encase, Novell, Red Hat Linux, IBM Lotus, and other leading technologies. It also offers courses on PRINCE2® and ITIL® processes, Project Management and Business Analysis.

Affected students can call DDLS on 1800 U-LEARN (1800 853 276).

Ends

With over 20 years experience DDLS is ranked in the world's top ten IT educators with over 100 staff, 42 instructors and 52 fully-equipped network training rooms. DDLS trains Australia's top ASX listed corporations, as well as training individuals. Training is provided at DDLS premises in Sydney, Melbourne, Brisbane, Perth, Adelaide and Canberra or on customer sites.
www.ddls.com.au